A TIMELY BOOK ON TURKEY

حرمك HAREMLIK حرمك

Some Pages from the Life of Turkish Women

By DEMETRA VAKA (Mrs. Kenneth Brown)

VIVID pictures of the life of Turkish women by an author who has acquired a first hand knowledge of the subject. It is the most important book upon Turkish life since Pierre Loti's "Disenchanted," and it further has advantage over that of vastly greater opportunities for a full knowledge and sympathetic understanding of Turkish life.

The publication of this volume is most opportune, as the public interest is centered on Turkey, and the author, a native of Constantinople, gives a description of Turkish life and manners which is engrossing and entertaining.

HOW AMERICANS ENJOY LIFE

THE PEOPLE AT PLAY

By ROLLIN LYNDE HARTT

Fully Illustrated
by the Author

12mo, $1.50 net
Postpaid, $1.65

A REMARKABLE book, presenting the sports and amusements of the masses with shrewd insight and a rich vein of humor. Mr. Hartt has been for many years a curious student of the life of the people, and the results of his observations are written with a wit and humor and an understanding of the minds and hearts of the people that is as delightful as it is instructive.

The book is at once a contribution to sociology and a volume of delightful reading.

and Twenty-four Full-page Illustrations. $2.00 net

THE first comprehensive and altogether satisfactory book on that great and largely unknown country as it is to-day. General Greely, Chief Signal Officer, U. S. A., and former Arctic explorer is, by his many visits to Alaska, and by his knowledge of the territory, its industries and its people, thoroughly equipped for writing such a book, and he has produced an exhaustive, authoritative, and interesting volume. The chapters deal with such subjects as "Government and Laws," "Agriculture and Forestry," "Mining in General," "Fur Seal Fisheries," "Tourist's Trips," "Inhabitants—Whites and Natives," etc. It is a complete picture of Alaska to-day in its geographical, commercial, social, and industrial and political conditions, and a book invaluable to any one who is going to the territory for any purpose and at the same time of the greatest serviceableness as a reference book.

*Published To-DayPublished May 15thIn the Wake of the Green Banner*By EUGENE PAUL METOUR*Illustrated by E. M. ASHE*$1.50

A VIVID, thrilling story of love and adventure in Africa during the French occupation of Algeria. The charming love interest, the remarkable pictures of desert life and warfare, and the adventures and fierce fighting of the foreign legion make up a novel that will not fail to hold the reader's interest to the end.

The White Mice*By RICHARD HARDING DAVIS*Illustrated by GEORGE GIBBS*$1.50

A QUICK, rousing story of love and a revolution in a Central American Republic. Told with all the swing and dash of "Soldiers of Fortune" and "Captain Macklin." "Roddy" Forrester, ex-pitcher on the Yale University nine, goes down to South America and his adventures and love affair and the part he plays in the revolution are told as only Richard Harding Davis can tell a story.

LOVE LETTERS OF THE CARLYLES

Edited by ALEXANDER CARLYLE, Nephew of Thomas Carlyle. With portraits.
2 vols. 8vo. $8.00 net.

These are the Letters that passed between Thomas Carlyle and Jane Welsh from the time of their first meeting in May, 1821, until their marriage.

CHICAGO TRIBUNE:

"The most important contribution to literature of the new year."

BOSTON TRANSCRIPT:

"It is to be doubted if in all literature there is anything quite the equal of these letters, in their spontaneity, their breadth of view, their intimacy. They are so great that they really belong to the world and to posterity."

LONDON DAILY NEWS:

"The literature of letters will be searched in vain for a parallel. Even the love letters of the Brownings suffer by comparison, for Elizabeth Barrett had none of the witchery of Jane Welsh. Together the Carlyles formed the most brilliant correspondents that ever joined issue."

THE MAKING OF CARLYLE

Would an up-to-date selected list of nearly 800 library addresses—everyone of them a bona-fide book buyer all the year round—interest you?

THERE is a constant call for a select list of public and semi-public libraries in the United States and Canada having funds for book buying every year. Less than one-quarter of the total number of libraries are "live" buyers, and the waste in circularizing a general list is a discouragement to many. To meet this demand there has been included in the Annual Library Index, 1908, just published, a special list of the leading public and semi-public libraries in the United States and Canada confined for the most part to those having not less than 10,000 volumes, $2,000 annual income, and $400 annual expenditure for books. This list includes approximately eight hundred libraries, and gives the name and location of the library, the name of the librarian, the number of volumes, the accessions for the past library year, the annual income and the annual book expenditure—the facts which dealers especially need in appealing to libraries. This list is not published separately but is included with the other valuable features of the Annual Library Index.

NOTES IN SEASON.

THE WERNER COMPANY, Akron, Ohio, will publish at once "The Works of Guy De Maupassant," in eight large volumes, printed in an exclusive Trade edition from entirely new plates, illustrated with photogravures on Japanese paper. The set has been extensively advertised in the leading magazines and Canada, and the trade will find a waiting public for the works of the king of short story writers.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & Co. have just ready C. N. and A. M. Williamson's new novel, "Set in Silver," already fully described by us; a volume of short stories by O. Henry, entitled "Roads of Destiny;" "Kipling Stories," and "Poems Every Child Should Know," edited by Emily E. Burt and Edward T. Chapin; and the following additions to the Garden Library: "The Flower Garden" and "The Vegetable Garden," by Ida D. Bennett; and "The Orchard and Fruit Garden," by E. P. Powell, all fully illustrated. They will publish on the 20th inst. Mrs. Humphry Ward's new story, "Marriage à la Mode."

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY publish this week "The White Sister," by F. Marion Crawford; "Misery and Its Causes," by Dr. Edward T. Devine, a study of the subject based on the records of five thousand cases supplied by the Charity Organization, supplemented by a dozen years of varied experience in the battle with poverty; "The Gospel in Latin Lands," by the Rev. Francis E. Clark and Mrs. Harriet A. Clark, a comprehensive account of Protestant work in countries generally regarded as exclusively Roman Catholic; and "Robert Y. Hayne and His Times," by Theodore D. Jervay, who has done much to restore the South Carolina statesman and opponent of Daniel Webster to the place he merits.

DODD, MEAD & Co. have brought out this week "A Handbook of Modern French Painting," by Professor D. Cady Eaton, of Yale, a compact reference manual designed for those travellers who desire more information about modern French painting than is given in ordinary guide books, and who have not at hand the volumes of art history and criticism necessary to fully satisfy their desires; also, a volume of essays by Dr. Harry Thurston Peck, entitled "Studies in Several Literatures," relating to some of the famous books and authors of the world, as well as to several literary "movements." Its range may be seen from the fact that it begins with the Odyssey and ends with a consideration of what is mockingly styled "Journalism."

HENRY HOLT & Co. will issue shortly a collection of "Old Testament Narratives," prepared for class use by Assistant Professor George H. Nettleton, of Yale, for the course prescribed for secondary schools by the National Conference, which met in February. This edition covers the new requirements thoroughly. The text is the King James version, annotations are not given, but an introduction presents the main facts in the literary history of the Bible and of its English versions. Next week will be issued "Less Than Kin," by Alice Duer Miller, a story based on mistaken identity; "Railroads and Freight Rates, in relation to the industry and commerce of the United States," by Logan G. McPherson; and a vocabulary edition for class use of "Das Habichtsfraülein," edited with composition exercises by Dr. Morton C. Stewart, giving pictures of peasant customs in the Thuringian forest.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.

The prices of net books issued by publishers who protect the prices of their new publications are preceded in this list by the double asterisk **, and the word net follows the price. Works of fiction (not net) of which a minimum price is protected by their publishers, are preceded by a dagger †. The prices of net books not protected are preceded by a single asterisk *, and the word net follows the price.

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p., in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederick; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Louis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard; S: Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

Sizes are designated as follows: F. (folio: over 30 centimeters high); Q. (4to: under 30 cm.); O. (8vo: 25 cm.); D. (12mo: 20 cm.); S. (16mo: 17½ cm.); T. (24mo: 15 cm.); Tt. (32mo: 12½ cm.); Fe. 48mo: 10 cm.). Sq., obl., etc., designate square, oblong, narrow books of these heights.

Alexander, Ja. B. The lunarian professor, and his remarkable revelations concerning the earth, the moon and Mars; together with an account of the cruise of the "Sally Ann." Minneapolis, Minn., James B. Alexander, 1909. c. 291 p. D. cl., $1.

By the author of "The dynamic theory," "The soul and its bearings," etc. The professor is supposed to take a much needed outing, during which all kinds of visions and prophecies come to him. He studies the moon and its people, single tax, purchase of railways, socialism, woman's rights, marriage and divorce, Mars and the Martians, the decay of the family, universal state and language, etc. All the questions now before the peoples of the earth unrolled themselves before the professor in 1892.

American Baptist year-book, 1909; ed. by J. G. Walker, D.D. Phil., American Baptist Publication Society, [1909.] 253 p. O. pap., *50 c. net.

Anderson, Mrs. Ada Woodruff. The strain of white; il. by Frances Rogers. Bost., Little, Brown & Co., 1909. c. 8+6-300 p. D. cl., †$1.50.

The story of an Indian half-breed girl who has had the advantage of several years of education under an old French priest. The time is in the fifties and the scene covers what is now Washington and Oregon. The girl's father becomes commandant of an important fort. For some time he refuses to acknowledge her fearing the effect on his delicate wife. This noble woman in the end makes all things right. Contains accurate descriptions of Indian customs and the settling of the West by the white man.

Aristophanes. The Acharnians; with introd., critical notes and commentary by W. Rennie. [N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co.,] 1909. 6+279 p. D. cl., *$1.70 net.

The editor is fellow of Trinity College, Cambridge, and lecturer in Greek at the University of Glasgow. He says in his preface: "In preparing this commentary on the Acharnians I have necessarily made use of most of the previous editions of this and other plays of Aristophanes, and of the occasional contributions in recent periodicals and special works."

Barbe, Waitman. Famous poems explained; helps to reading with the understanding; with biographical notes of the authors represented; with an introd. by R: G. Boone. N. Y., Hinds, Noble & Eldredge, [1909.] c. 237 p. 12°, cl., $1.

Barton, G.; Guilday, P: K., Taggart, Marion Ames, and others. The lady of the tower, and other stories. N. Y., Benziger Bros., 1909. c. 6+7-286 p. D. cl., $1.25.

Contents: The lady of the tower, by G: Barton; Greater love than this, by P. K. Guilday; A woman's way, by Marion Ames Taggart; Major Babby, peace-maker, by Marion Ames Taggart; We two and Miss Pamela, by Maud Regan; The belles of Santa Marta, by Mary E. Mannix; The picture in the fire, by Jerome Harte; At summer's close, by Anna Blanche McGill; The lady of the roses, by Maud Regan; Stephen Oxenham's mistake, by Magdalen Rock; St. Patrick and the pink gown, by Eileen Farley; The war of the roses, by M. A. Taggart.

Bates, Frank Amaso, ["Matasiso," pseud.] Camping and cooking. Bost., Ball Publishing Co., 1909. c. 116 p. il. S. cl., *75 c. net.

The author of "Game birds of North America," "Stories of lake, field and forest," etc., speaks from long experience in the advice he gives to the business man, the clerk, the mechanic and others new to the pleasures of camping. A portion of the book has already appeared in The Amateur Sportsman and Sportsman's Magazine. About 100 recipes are given for food that can be prepared with a camper's outfit. There is a special chapter on cleaning fish, full of practical details, prepared for the volume by Leslie F. Bosworth.

Beeching, Canon H: C: William Shakespeare: player, playmaker, and poet; a reply to Mr. George Greenwood, M.P.; with facsimiles of the five authentic signatures of the poet. N. Y., John Lane Co. (The Bodley Head,) 1909. 8+104 p. D. cl., *$1 net.

Author is canon of Westminster, preacher to the Honourable Society of Lincoln's Inn. A paper read before the Royal Society of Literature by way of answer to G. G. Greenwood's "The Shakespeare problem restated," which has since been answered by Mr. Greenwood in a volume called, "In re Shakespeare: Beeching vs. Greenwood." Mr. Beeching is opposed to the Bacon theory, and finds fault with the weakness of Mr. Greenwood's opposition to the new theories against Shakespeare being the author of all the plays accredited to him.

Bible. The Scofield reference Bible: the Holy Bible, containing the Old and New Testaments; authorized version, with a new system of connected topical references to all the greater themes of Scripture, with annotations, revised marginal renderings, summaries, definitions, and index; to which are added helps at hard places, explanations of seeming discrepancies, and a new system of paragraphs; ed. by Rev. Boston Association for the Relief and Control of Tuberculosis. A narrative of the work done in a year by the Boston Association for the Relief and Control of Tuberculosis; an announcement of its immediate plans; a new method of teaching hygiene; an acknowledgment and accounting to those who have provided the funds; fifth annual report, Nov. 1, 1907, to Oct. 31, 1908. Bost., Boston Association for the Relief and Control of Tuberculosis, 4 Joy St., [1909.] 48 p. il. O. pap., 15 c.

Brock, Claude Cornelius, comp. Solitaire: the great European game of "Patience"; for one or more players; how to play forty of the most interesting American, English, German and French games. Buffalo, N. Y., C. C. Brock, [542-544 Ellicott Sq.,] 1909. c. 26 p. il. O. pap., 25 c.

Comprises most of the best known games of "Solitaire." Many have been taken from the English book, "Games of patience"; others are translated from the French. All have been rewritten and expressed in simple language so they can be readily understood. Some are intricate and will demand close attention. It is hoped the pamphlet will contain much amusement for weary, lonely hours.

Brooks, Rob. C. Odd prices and bargains in retail trade. Cin., University of Cincinnati Press, [1909.] 28 p. O. (University of Cincinnati studies.) pap. (Add. pubs. for price.)

Author is professor of political science in the University of Cincinnati. A study of how prices and bargains are made to tempt; how the details are based on knowledge of human nature and a preference in certain minds for certain numbers. It is said R. H. Macy, New York City, first started the idea of a definite limit of profit on each article by which all competitors could be undersold. From this resulted the odd prices now so popular in all departments of retail trade.

Browning, E. Franklin. Genealogy of the Brownings in America from 1621-1908. N. Y., [Edward Franklin Browning, 18 W. 75th St.,] 1909. 982 p. il. 4°, cl., $7.50.

Bryan, Ja. Wallace. The development of the English law of conspiracy. Baltimore, Md., Johns Hopkins Press, 1909. 161 p. O. (Johns Hopkins University studies in historical and political science under the direction of the Departments of History, Political Economy and Political Science.) pap., 75 c.

There is scarcely a more complex topic in the entire domain of British national jurisprudence than that of illegal combinations. The law relating to them has been the creature of accident and special conditions. The task of extracting the underlying principles is extremely difficult and giving an intelligent account of their causes almost impossible. The first conception of conspiracy in English law is traced to the time of Edward I. The other chapters deal with the growth and decay of the civil action of conspiracy; the criminal law of conspiracy in the nineteenth century, and the combinations of labor.

Bulwer-Lytton, Sir E. G. Earle Lytton, [Lord Lytton.] The lost tales of Miletus. N. Y., Sturgis & Walton Co., 1909. 15+219 p. D. hf. cl., $1.25 net.

A new edition of one of Bulwer's works that has been for many years out of print. First published in 1865.

Cain, Georges. Walks in Paris; tr. by Alfred Allinson; with a frontispiece in colour by Maxwell Armfield; and 118 other il. and plans. N. Y., Macmillan, 1909. 11+334 p. D. cl., $2.

Charmingly gossiping descriptions of historical places in Paris. Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching. Rules for the admission of institutions for the granting of retiring allowances. N. Y., [Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching,] 1908, [1909.] 12 p. 4°, pap., gratis.

This Carnegie Foundation had its inception on April 16, 1905, when Mr. Carnegie addressed letters to twenty-five men asking them to become trustees of a fund of $10,000,000 which he proposed to establish. The revenue from this fund is to provide retiring pensions for the teachers of universities, colleges and technical schools in the United States, Canada and Newfoundland under such conditions as the trustees may adopt from time to time.

Chamberlain, Lucia. The other side of the door; with il by Herman Pfeifer. Indianapolis, Ind., Bobbs-Merrill Co., [1909.] c. 277 p. D. cl., $1.50.

A story of San Francisco just after the Civil War. It is simply told by a young girl, who is her father's housekeeper, her mother having long been dead. The one striking event, from which title springs, is a murder, the victim being the proprietor of a gambling house. The girl tells a few things she had witnessed, not knowing their significance, and learns to her sorrow that she has been the one to convict the supposed murderer—a man she has always admired very much. There is "a Spanish woman" in the story, who in the end admits that she is the murderer. By the author of "The coast of chance."

Child, Frank S. Fairfield, ancient and modern: a brief account, historic and descriptive, of a famous Connecticut town; prepared in commemoration of the 270th anniversary of the town's settlement. [Fairfield, Ct.,] Fairfield Historical Society, 1909. c. 75 p. pls. O. pap., 50 c.

Author is president of the Fairfield Historical Society, and the book is sold for the benefit of that society. History of town covers from the ending of the Pequot War in 1637 to organization of the Fairfield Historical Society in 1903. Fairfield lies on the north shore of Long Island Sound in the State of Connecticut, about 50 miles distant from New York City. Bibliography (3 p.).

Coan, Maris Blair. The coming peril: [socialism.] Phil., [Wilkie & Coan, 924 Real Estate Trust Bldg.,] 1909. c. 95 p. D. cl., 50 c.

An arraignment of Socialism. The author accuses it of "a powder and shot revolution," of teaching "free love," of circulating literature with the hope it will force our army and navy to mutiny, of trying to destroy the churches of our country, etc. He also claims he has the necessary evidence to prove the truth of these accusations.

Coburn, Foster Dwight. Swine in America; a text-book for the breeder, feeder and student. N. Y., Orange Judd Co., 1909. 15+614 p. il. pls. 8°, cl., $2.50 net.

Collins, Ja. H. Human nature in selling goods. Phil., Henry Altemus Co., [1909.] c. '08. 93 p. S. (Altemus' popular manuals.) bds., 50 c.

Author explains that at least 6,000,000 people in this country are engaged in selling things and that of these fully 1,000,000 are commercial travellers. He considers a "live" drummer a real advance agent of progress. He contends that a successful salesman must consciously or unconsciously understand human nature and appeal to its different varieties whether he wants to sell life insurance, automobiles, or ready-made clothing. Every point Mr. Collins makes he illustrates by anecdotes based on actual happenings.

Collins, Miles. Woolen and worsted spinning; a complete working guide to modern practice in the manufacture of woolen and worsted yarns and felt; including the sources, natural properties, grading, and cleansing of the raw material, and the machinery and processes of factory work. Crawford, Francis Marion. The white sister. N. Y., Macmillan, 1909. c. '08. 335 p. pls. D. cl., $1.50.

Prince Chiaromonte, the head of an old Roman family and a devout son of the church, refused on marrying to obey a law of the new Italian government that civil ceremony alone makes a marriage legal. He is married only by the religious ceremony, and dying suddenly his only daughter Angela is pronounced illegitimate and turned out of her old home utterly penniless. She finds a refuge with her former governess. A young Italian officer who desires to marry her remains faithful in spite of her loss of fortune and social position. They are shortly to be married, when he receives orders to proceed at once to Africa. In six weeks it is reported that the whole party has been killed. Angela broken hearted takes the veil. The ending is quite unexpected. One of the Saracinescas now a great man in the Church is introduced. The story has been dramatized for Viola Allen, the well-known actress.

Fallows, Alice Katharine. Mental hygiene in everyday living. Chic., A. C. McClurg & Co., 1909. c. 38 p. S. (Making the best of things ser.) bds., *35 c. net.

The effort to unite religion, medicine and psychology for the relief of nervous disorders becomes more and more far-reaching. The daughter of Bishop Fallows advocates early training in "will gymnastics," self-control in dealing with daily discomforts, optimism, sense of humor and all the good common sense on which "hang the law of health and efficient living." Young people should be educated from the beginning; then there will be no need for re-education, to which so much attention is now given.

Fallows, Alice Katharine. The point of view. Chic., A. C. McClurg & Co., 1909. c. 44 p. S. (Making the best of things ser.) bds., *35 c. net.

Miss Fallows is co-worker with her father, Bishop Fallows, in the Emmanuel Movement. She explains how all life is changed and all work made less hard by the way we look at it, and she helps towards the proper view.

Fallows, Alice Katharine. A talk on relaxation. Chic., A. C. McClurg & Co., 1909. c. 35 p. S. (Making the best of things ser.) bds., *35 c. net.

Through ignorance most of us put our physical and mental machinery to much unnecessary strain. Chronic hurrying is the sin of the age. In overcoming this useless hurry mere physical relaxation is of great service. "Use a chair, not as a perching place between activities, but as a comfortable device for resting the muscles. Use a bed at night . . . for that delicious, refreshing rest that one may see in a comfortable family puss . . . without a trace of tension from the end of a gray nose to the tip of a furry tail."

Fifty years of Darwinism: modern aspects of evolution; centennial addresses in honor of Charles Darwin, before the American Association for the Advancement of Science, Baltimore, Friday, Jan. 1, 1909. N. Y., Henry Holt & Co., 1909. c. 3+274 p. O. cl., **$2 net.

MacDougal; The behavior of unit characters in heredity, W. E. Castle; Mutation, C. B. Davenport; Adaptation, Carl H. Eigenmann; Darwin and paleontology, H. Fairfield Osborn; Evolution and psychology, G. Stanley Hall.

Ford, Sewell. Cherub Devine: a novel. N. Y., Mitchell Kennerley, [1909.] c. 395 p. D. cl., $1.50.

The creator of "Shorty McCabe" has introduced an equally original and perhaps more lovable hero in "Cherub," the financial magnate with a vast fortune and strong grip on facts. He buys a country place on Long Island and forgets the transaction for a time. Suddenly decides to take a week-end and look at his bargain. The house, the surroundings, the servants in charge and the former owners, an old gentleman and his daughter, who has returned to her father from the foreign count she had married, quite bewilder the "Cherub." The plot is clever, the style humorous, and a great "Wall Street day" is among the many adventures that befall "Cherub Livine."

Foster, Rev. G: Burman. The function of religion in man's struggle for existence. Chic., University of Chicago Press, 1909. 306 p. S. cl., *$1 net.

Author is professor of philosophy of religion in the University of Chicago, and has written "The finality of the Christian religion." The latter book was used by the University of Berkeley during the academic year 1907-'08. The author was requested to make the annual address before its Philosophic Union. The address was amplified for the university Journal. It is once more amplified and popularized and forms this book. It addresses itself to thinking, feeling men and women, endeavoring to show that although they may reject many unproved dogmas of the Christian faith, enough remains to help and cheer them in life's battles.

"—from cellar to garret": a textbook on household science. Newark, N. J., Carbona Products Co., 3-5 Burnet St., [1909.] c. '08. no paging, obl. ff. pap., 10 c.

Futrelle, Jacques. Elusive Isabel; with il. by Alonzo Kimball. Indianapolis, Ind., Bobbs-Merrill Co., [1909.] c. '08. 274 p. D. cl., †$1.50.

Suddenly, without warning, a beautiful, distinguished looking woman appears one evening at the Italian Embassy at Washington. She brings credentials which satisfies the Ambassador as to her identity, and at once is received into the diplomatic circle. Her mysterious ways excite suspicion and the Secret Service Office is notified to watch her, Mr. Grimm, one of the most clever of the detectives, being given that task. The story henceforth is a battle of wits. Mr. Grimm discovers she is in Washington on a mission from the European powers, which if carried out will bring on a world-war. Many novel and dramatic things occur, the detective winning in the end. By the author of "The thinking machine," etc.

Hogarth, W: The analysis of beauty; a reprint including the plates formerly in portfolio. Pittsfield, Mass., Silver Lotus Shop, 1909. c. '08. 242 p. pls. D. cl., *$1.50 net.

Hogarth's work first appeared in 1753. It can only now be found in the libraries of large cities and is only kept for reference and not allowed for circulation. This book is here put within the reach of art students. In the original edition the illustrations were grouped in two plates, each 14½ x 19½ inches. The centre illustration was 9½ x 17½ inches and the other illustrations were grouped in the margins. The large plates have been reduced to the size of this volume and the smaller ones are distributed facing the text which describes them. Unnecessary footnotes have been discarded. The text remains unchanged with the exception of the preface and introduction, which has been abridged.

The sudden and mysterious death of Seth Chapman, one of the wealthiest ranch owners of Southern California, furnishes the theme for a detective story. A clever detective is sent from San Francisco to ferret out the real causes of the man's death, a long story including strange adventures resulting.

Jewett, Mrs. Frances Gulick. The body at work. Bost., Ginn, [1909.] c. 16+247 p. il. D. (Gulick hygiene ser.) cl., 50 c.

Such matters of physiology are here treated as were too difficult or too technical to be discussed in "Good health." In presenting the function and structure of bone and muscle "The body at work" brings out the advantages and disadvantages of bone and muscle habits—right and wrong habits of sitting, standing, and walking; laws of muscle and bone, by which had habits of posture may be overcome and good habits formed. Muscular exercise receives emphasis because it is an avenue of interest and closely related to needed facts in physiology and hygiene.

Johnson, A. E. Tom Browne, R. I.; containing 57 examples of the artist's work in brush, pen and pencil. [N. Y., Macmillan,] 1909. 8+58 p. O. (Brush, pen and pencil ser.) cl., *$1.50 net.

The work of "Frank Reynolds" and John Haskell has already appeared in this Brush, pen and pencil series. The object of the series is to preserve in permanent shape the works of artists who work chiefly in black and white and chiefly for the ephemeral press. Much really fine work goes into magazines and newspapers and the idea of preserving it should be welcomed by the public as well as by the artists.

Josselyn, Freeman M., and Talbot, L. Raymond, eds. Elementary reader of French history. Bost., Ginn, [1909.] c. 5+73 p.

maps, S. (International modern language ser.) cl., 30 c.

Monsieur Josselyn is docteur de l'Université de Paris, and Mr. Talbot, instructor in romance languages, Boston University. As the book is intended primarily for first-year students, with little or no knowledge of French grammar, the vocabulary and notes, both linguistic and historical, are full, explaining all difficulties liable to be encountered by the average student. The book may also be used to advantage with advanced classes, as sight reading or purely for the study of the subject-matter.

Kidder, Frank Eugene. Building construction and superintendence; rev. and enl. by T. Nolan; pt. 1, Masons' work; 9th ed., rev. N. Y., William T. Comstock, 1909. c. '96-'09. 19+965 p. figs. tabs., O. cl., $6.

"This new edition includes a careful examination of every article in the book and a revision of every one in which changes, omissions or additions of data or methods of procedure are deemed necessary or advisable; the omission of some articles and the addition of many new ones; the rewriting of some chapters and the addition of one entirely new chapter; the addition of nearly four hundred new illustrative constructive drawings; the addition of many new tables and formulas; the classification of the subdivisions of each chapter; the addition of titles to every article and illustration; the addition of new footnotes referring to many authorities for further data; and a new and comprehensive index with numerous cross references."—From MR. NOLAN'S preface.

Mackaye, Percy Wallace. The playhouse and the play, and other addresses concerning the theatre and democracy in America. N. Y., Macmillan, 1909. c. 13+210 p. D. cl., **$1.25 net.

The well-known dramatist advocates the establishment of civic theatres and the raising of the drama to a civic force, and discusses the theatre as an institution of national educative power instead of a private speculative business. The volume includes addresses delivered before Harvard, Yale, Columbia and other universities. The playhouse and the play must work toward what they now lack—the indispensable basis for their wholesome prosperity, enlightened public opinion. And this must be taught and provision must be made for its teaching.

Magazine (The) subject-index. v. 2, A subject-index to one hundred and twenty American and English periodicals and society publications, 1908; ed. by F. Winthrop Faxon. Bost., Boston Book Co., 1909. 195 p. 8°, cl., $3.

Mason, Arthur Ja., D.D. Memoir of George Howard Wilkinson, Bishop of St. Andrews Dunkeld and Dunblane and Primus of the Scottish Church, formerly Bishop of Truro. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1909. 2 v., 10+413; 449 p. pls. pors. O. cl., *$8 net.

Dr. Mason was one of the Bishop's chaplains. It has been his wish and his endeavor, "not so much to set forth the events of his life in succession and in detail, as to give a true picture of the man, that posterity may have some notion of what his contemporaries saw in him and why." Many of the Bishop's letters and speeches are given, and reminiscences and appreciations from the hands of people who knew him at different periods of his life. The author dwells particularly upon certain portions of his life—as, for instance, his relations with Archbishop Benson and with the Community of the Epiphany, and at a later time his work for South Africa and for the cause of Unity in Scotland.

Mason, Mrs. Caroline Atwater. The mystery of Miss Motte; with a frontispiece in colour by Albert R. Thayer. Bost., L. C. Page & Co., 1909. c. '08. 244 p. D. cl., $1.25.

The story is a combination of mystery and romance. The heroine, a young woman of remarkable personality, is persuaded, on account of disclosures made by her mother, to promise never to marry, and hence holds herself aloof, which but adds zest to the pursuit of her several admirers. The unravelling of the truth concerning her birth, and its effect on the mother, solves the mystery to the reader and brings the romance to a happy termination. By the author of "A Lily of France," etc.

Stories of Oliver Goldsmith, James Boswell, Fanny Burney, Richard Brinsley Sheridan and other picturesque figures of the eighteenth century.

Morals in modern business: address delivered in the Page lecture series, 1908, before the senior class of the Sheffield Scientific School, Yale University. New Haven, Ct., Yale University Press, 1909. c. 9+162 p. D. (Page lecture ser.) cl., *$1.25 net.

Ripley Hitchcock, in an introduction says, "the aim of this book is to afford some candid and practical inquiry into the conduct of modern business on what may be termed the moral side." The subjects of the six papers and the authors' names are as follows: The morals of trade in the making, by E. D. Page; Production, by G. W. Alger; Competition, by H. Holt; Credit and banking, by A. Burton Hepburn; Public service, by E. W. Bemis; Corporate and other trusts, by Ja. McKeen. Syllabi of the lectures (14 p.). This lecture course was established in 1907 and in the spring of 1908 these lectures were given.

Mortensen, Arthon Christian. The law of transformation in nature of natural bodies. Wash., D. C., Arthon C. Mortensen, 1326 L St., N. W., 1909. c. 32 p. O. pap., 50 c.

The author explains scientifically that all that we call development or evolution of organic bodies is condensation of natural bodies into more condensed forms. Man has studied all these facts of nature, but has failed to apply the same study to his own nature. He has made brilliant discoveries how to utilize the natural bodies chiefly for the purpose of making his life more comfortable. The physical side of life has predominated; the human family has been thrown into a diseased, artificial life. Man has lost the natural evolution of life and its beauty and goes through life without understanding it and without real happiness. There is a "chemistry" of the soul as well as of the body.

Murphy, Dawsey Cope. Popular patriotic poems explained; a supplementary reader for use in public and private schools. N. Y., Hinds, Noble & Eldredge, [1909.] c. 9+191 p. il. pls. pors. 12°, cl., 65 c.

National Business League of America. Practical suggestions for the development of American export trade; with directories of the chief cities of Brazil, South America, by G. E. Anderson; Chile, South America, by Alfred A. Winslow; Panama, by Arnold Shanklin; Southeast Africa, by W. Stanley Hollis. Chic., National Business League of America, 1909. 91 p. O. pap. (Add. pubs. for price.)

Suggestions that the government should publish a "Trade directory of the world" which would be of the greatest practical value to industrial and commercial interests which now waits for outside agencies for publicity.

Nelson, Hector W. Weaving; a practical guide to the mechanical construction, operation, and care of weaving machinery, and all details of the mechanical processes involved in weaving. Chic., American School of Correspondence, 1909. c. 11-321 p. il. pls. diagrs., 8°, (American School of Correspondence pubs.) cl., $3.

Oberg, Erik Valdemar. Tables and formulas for shop and drafting-room. N. Y., Industrial Press, 1909. c. 48 p. diagrs., 8°, (Machinery's reference ser.) pap., 25 c.

Otis, Alexander. Hearts are trumps. N. Y., John McBride Co., 1909. c. 333 p. front. D. cl., $1.50.

A young dramatic and musical critic attached to a leading New York paper is threatened with nervous exhaustion and starts for a rest in the Berkshire Hills. He is so tired that he gets into the wrong Pullman sleeper, and is taken by the porter for a young clergyman, and bundled off, half asleep at the wrong station, with the clergyman's belongings. In the morning he finds himself in a luxurious private house, with a wedding not far off, at which the clergyman was to have officiated. The happenings after this seem wholly impossible, but are made extremely amusing.

Clio Rickman and appreciations by Leslie Stephen, Lord Erskine, Paul Desjardins, Rob. G. Ingersoll, Elbert Hubbard and Marilla M. Ricker; ed. and annotated by Daniel Edwin Wheeler. 10 v. [Independence ed.] N. Y., Vincent Parke & Co., [1909.] c. '08. pls. pors. facsims., 8°, per set, $39.50; $65; $75; $100; $250; $500; $1000.

Contents: v. 1, Life and appreciations; v. 2, Common sense; Miscellany; v. 3, The crisis; v. 4, The rights of man; v. 5, The rights of man; Miscellany; v. 6, The age of reason; v. 7, The age of reason; Miscellany; v. 8-9, Essays, letters, addresses; v. 10, Essays, letters, poems.

Pawlie, E. The practical handbook of garment dyeing and cleaning; including scouring, bleaching, dry cleaning and finishing of garments, feathers, fur, leather, etc., etc. Phil., M. M. Frank, [147 N. Front St.,] 1909. c. 13+357 p. il. 8°, cl., $3.75.

Perkins, Clara Crawford. Builders of Spain. N. Y., Henry Holt & Co., 1909. c. 2 v., 12+309; 6+307 p. pls. O. cl., $5, boxed.

Its native stock has produced no rulers, and from before the dawn of history the Spanish peninsula has been continuously ruled by alien peoples. These were "the builders of Spain." We read of invasion after invasions; of Celtic, Phœnician, Carthaginian, Roman, Vandalic, Visigothic, Moorish and Arabic conquest and domination. Each alien people has left the impress of its character upon the civilization of its period and upon the cities with which its name is chiefly connected. The series of cities whose history forms the larger portion of the book have been chosen as representing distinct developments. The unreliable early Spanish history has been carefully judged and selections carefully made.

Perkins, Clara Crawford. French cathedrals and chateaux. 2 v. [New ed.] N. Y., Henry Holt & Co., 1909. il. 8°, cl., *$5 net. Formerly published by Knight & Millet, Boston.

Pertuch, Albert Richard. German schlagball (German bat-ball): a game of ball described in four grades of difficulty; tr. by Hans Ballin. Phil., John Joseph McVey, [1909.] 15 p. O. pap., 15 c.

Author is instructor of physical training, Philadelphia Turngemende, and La Salle College, Philadelphia. The translator is in the department of physical training, Philadelphia public schools. The apparatus used is a round football, best covered with duck. The ball may be kicked or batted with the fist. A fairly large gymnasium offers an excellent playground.

Phelps, Earle Bernard. The pollution of streams by sulphite pulp waste; a study of possible remedies: investigation made at the Sanitary Research Laboratory and Sewage Experiment Station of Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Wash., D. C., [U. S., Office of the Superintendent of Documents,] 1909. 37 p. tabs., O. (United States, Dept. of the Interior; Geological Survey water-supply paper.) pap., 10 c.

A sermon by the minister of the First Unitarian Church, Seattle, Wash., on the 13th chapter of 1st Corinthians.

Pratt, W. Knight. The advertising manual; being a treatise on the subject of advertising and an exposition of the correct methods to be applied in the preparation of newspaper advertisements from which the best returns may be expected. Chic., Daniel Stern, 355 Dearborn St., 1909. c. 278 p. il. 12°, (American artisan manuals.) cl., $3.50.

Remensnyder, Junius B., D.D. Mysticism: psychology, history and relation to Scripture, church and Christian life. Burlington, Ia., German Literary Board, 1909. c. 25 p. D. pap., 25 c.

Author is pastor of St. James' Lutheran Church, N. Y. City. He explains that the finest types of mysticism have issued the noblest conceptions of deity. It was this quality in St. Bernard that made his triumph over the learning and scholastic skill of Abelard inevitable and that made Luther so responsive to the language of flowers, the magic of art and the gentle ways of childhood. "The mysticism in a religion is the secret of its strength."

Rich, Olive Verne. The prophecy of Yah-Ma-Sun; il. by B. C. Bubb. Seattle, Wash., Alice Harriman Co., 1909. c. no paging, il. nar. D. (Puget Sound Indian ser.) pap., 50 c., in envelope.

A legend of Puget Sound which foreshadowed the founding of the beautiful City of Seattle. Gotten up as a pamphlet printed on green paper.

Ries, W. F. Monkeys and monkeyettes: a reply to ex-President Roosevelt. Toledo, O., W. F. Ries, 1909. c. 64 p. T. pap., 10 c.

Written when the factories were closed recently and many people out of work to point out briefly the cause and cure for our economic ills in a country so bountifully supplied with natural resources, and with machinery sufficient to manufacture for the whole world. Companion pictures on the cover show monkeys in their native haunts feasting amidst plenty; and the poor of the slums starving amidst plenty, with the legend, "Civilized and uncivilized monkeys—to which group to you belong?"

Root, Rev. E. Tallmadge. The redemption of Paradise Pond; Barbara: stories of Rhode Island life. Providence, R. I., [Rev. E. T. Root, 141 Chester Ave.,] 1908, [1909.] 66+32 p. front. D. cl., 75 c.

Two sermon stories, written for popular Sunday evening services in the writer's own church.

Schomer, Abraham S. The primary cause of antisemitism: an answer to the Jewish question. [N. Y., Abraham S. Schomer, 5 Beekman St.,] 1909. c. 13+162 p. D. cl., $1.

An attempt to explain the origin and primary cause of antisemitism. The theory presented is a new one. Bibliography, a list of modern books in English relating to the Jewish question (4 p.).

Sloane, T. O'Connor. Arithmetic of electricity; a practical treatise on electrical calculations of all kinds reduced to a series of rules, all of the simplest forms, and involving only ordinary arithmetic. 20th ed. N. Y., Norman W. Henley Publishing Co., 1909. c. 8+9-162 p. il. tabs., D. cl., $1.

Snyder, Jonathan Le Moyne. Agriculture and democracy; an address delivered by the president of the Association of American Agricultural Colleges and Experiment Stations; [meeting] held at Washington, D. C., November 18-20, 1908. [Lansing, Mich., Michigan State Agricultural College, 1909.] 28 p. O. (Agricultural College bulletin.) pap. (Add. pubs. for price.)

Speaker claims that the great success of democracy in America rested on the fact that successful agriculture made it possible for all men to have the same food. Now population is increasing so fast that unless the land is cultivated according to the latest science the food will not increase within the next 50 years in proportion to demands. Class distinction will follow, the people will be ready to listen to agitators and disastrous consequences to democracy will follow. The conservation of natural resources must be a branch of learning in all educational institutions.

Spencer, T. G. *The deterioration of lead sheaths of aerial and underground telephone cables: a paper read before the conference committee consisting of representatives of the leading independent telephone operating companies in session January 23, 1909, at Boston, Mass. Temple Shakespeare, A pocket lexicon and concordance to the. N. Y., Macmillan, 1909. c. 8+274 p. il. T. cl., 45 c.; roan, 65 c.

Choice has been made of all words which since Shakespeare's days have fallen into disuse or have undergone a change of meaning, together with others used in his works which had more than one signification. Expressions and passages that have offered special difficulty to the commentators are also included, and the chief variorum readings and interpretations have been supplied. Nothing necessary for the ordinary student will be found wanting.

"Theocratus," pseud. The legacy of a man who wanted to do his duty. pt. I. N. Y., Corona Publishing Co., 65 West Broadway, [1909.] c. 154 p. O. pap., 50 c.

A collection of thoughts and epigrams on all subjects. The author closes, "I am here on this earth for the sake of truth"; and asks: "What is your mission on earth, reader? What are you for in this world?"

Thomas, Ambrose Milton. Plain economic facts for all people. N. Y., Cochrane Publishing Co., 1909. c. 398 p. 12°, cl., $3.

"There will always be new ventures in faith and science alike, and new ventures must always be followed by new evaluations. But such evaluations are not to be secured by reference to a closed system, either of truths or of values, but only by that orderly progression from actualities to possibilities and certainties which is the method of science." Author was Chancellor Green Fellow in mental science, Princeton University, and professor of philosophy, Trinity College, Hartford.

Virginia. Board of Education. List of books for rural school libraries in the state of Virginia, issued by the Department of Public Instruction, 1909; every library purchased with state aid must be selected from this list. Richmond, Va., William Ellis Jones, 1909. 62 p. 8°, pap., gratis.

Waller, Elbert. Waller's brief history of Illinois. Viola, Ill., Elbert Waller, 1909. c. 93 p. il. pors. maps, S. cl., 35 c.

Gives the important facts in Illinois history in chronological order, in brief, practical shape without any attempt at literary writing. Suitable for the eighth grade, the high school and teachers' examinations.

Ward, Mrs. Elizabeth Stuart Phelps, [Mrs. Herbert Dickinson.] Gypsy Breyton. N. Y., Sturgis & Walton Co., 1909. 6+219 p. front. D. (Familiar friends ser.) cl., $1.

A new edition of one of the author's earlier books for young people. Gypsy Breyton is a little girl of twelve who never thinks, and in consequence is the heroine of many startling episodes.

Warner, Anne, [Mrs. C. Ellis French.] In a mysterious way; il. by J. V. McFall. Bost., Little, Brown & Co., 1909. c. 290 p. D. cl., $1.50.

The heroine is a strangely exalted creature yearning for self-sacrifice. She thinks she loves a prominent man she has only seen a few times, and when he is frightfully hurt and disfigured in an accident plans to marry him and nurse him. She buys a little house in a secluded village and is hysterically happy in making it ready for the bridegroom. The other characters are a natural young girl and a civil engineer working in the village, between whom a warm love grows up. In the background is the loquacious village postmistress—as original and funny as anything the author of "The rejuvenation of Aunt Mary" has given us.

Watt, H. J. The economy and training of memory. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1909. 8+128 p. S. cl., 50 c.

Author is lecturer on psychology in the University of Glasgow and to the Glasgow Provincial Committees for the Training of Teachers. During the last twenty-five years the experimental study of memory has made considerable progress, and valuable results have been obtained. Many of these have an important bearing upon practice and upon the economy of effort. The aim of this book is to make these results more accessible to students and teachers, and to win for exact psychology some part of the interest and attention which it will command in the future.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

MAY 8, 1909.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter for advertising pages should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers and librarians depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information and guidance in buying books. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalog," and so forms the basis of booktrade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

INSTRUCTION FOR BOOKSELLERS.

THE subject of special industrial and commercial education, as we pointed out not long ago, is steadily gaining favor, and everywhere it is engaging the attention to a greater or less extent, not only of employers but of thinking statesmen as well. This is especially true in European countries in which trades are centralized in the larger cities, or in which merchants are intent upon training help for foreign markets. Every effort is made in these countries—Germany, France and England for example—to train and develop the intellectuality and manual dexterity of their artisans and the all-around efficiency of their mercantile apprentices.

Inspired by the International Congress of Publishers, held at Madrid a year ago, the German booktrade association has brought to completion its manual of instruction for the bookseller, ("Lehrbuch des deutschen Buchhandels,") in two volumes, the first of which deals with the book from the time it is presented to the publisher as manuscript until it is presented to the bookbuyer in printed book form. This work is intended both as preparatory as well as supplementary to the excellent course of the bookseller's school maintained at Leipzig—a school which, in fact, may be regarded as the model upon which technical booktrade schools in all other countries may be constructed.

France, also, has taken action officially along the lines suggested by the International Congress of Publishers. This has been in the form of twenty-four lectures, embodying a course of practical instruction for the booktrade, conducted by M. Bourrelier, of the firm of Armand Colin. The lectures are given under the auspices of the Cercle de la Librairie, and its call to the booktrade of France in favor of professional instruction according to the methods of other professional schools and colleges has met with cordial response by the employers as well as by their employees, who have realized that in our day the men, who are to win in any field of industry, must be thoroughly prepared and equipped with every detail of technical knowledge that has been already acquired and can be taught by recognized educational methods.

M. Bourrelier's warm welcome at the preliminary session was full of suggestion. He entered into no special details, but desired only to present a view of the entire machine. Others, he said, would explain the mechanism of each of its vital parts, but he would simply confine himself to a description of the monster, bring his hearers into touch with the "why and wherefore" of things and suggest their underlying principles.

M. Bourrelier's address was published in the Supplement of La Bibliographie de la France for March 12. We should be pleased to print it in full, in the hope of inspiring a similar course of instruction in this country, that we have so strenuously urged in the many years we have addressed the booktrade—but that is impossible, and we confine ourselves to an inadequate epitome necessitated by the existing conditions of time and space.

The book industry, according to M. Bourrelier, is the most complex of existing industries. Very few, even among the initiated, fully realize the multiple and complicated operations necessary to put the printed text before the eyes of its reader. The extreme diversity of these processes of manufacture has brought about an extreme specialization in their execution, and in large houses there is great danger that the man in charge of one of the wheels of the great machine may fail utterly to grasp the rôle his wheel fills in the complete machinery. In smaller houses, where the individual does many duties, almost ubiquity is expected of him; but everywhere the employee who aims to rise must acquire at least an idea of all the successive processes of manufacture. It is therefore specially desirable that those attending lectures for booksellers should not confine themselves to instruction in their specialties. The opposite would be better. A good manufacturer should give his attention to lectures dealing, for example, with such subjects as From whence comes the manuscript?—Where goes the book that he has manufactured?—What machinery is necessary for its distribution?, etc.

The twenty-four lectures of the course, prepared by the Cercle de la Librairie, will be a vade-mecum for every publisher and bookseller; they will analyze every detail of the trade from the manufacture of paper to the methods of sale, covering the acceptance of the manuscript, the composition, the press-work, the details of size, the stitching, the binding and the methods of sale and circulation, class of customers, and even the trade in second-hand books—"these sad to-morrows of the book."

The lesson impressed by this rapid sketch of the book industry is needed in every land. To go through the crisis that the booktrade in all countries is facing it is necessary that all should awake to the realization of individual responsibility, and that the efforts of every individual should produce the maximum possible result. To reach this end it is necessary that every member of the trade should know it in its entirety far beyond his own immediate functions. This knowledge will not come by intuition. The employee of the publisher must thoroughly realize the problems of sale and the bookseller must thoroughly understand the problems of manufacture. An industry only becomes successful by the education of all its followers, and only by a constantly enlarging comprehension of his profession can each individual member hope to raise himself.

As we go to press word reaches us that the referee in the suit of Macy's vs. the American Publishers' Association has handed down his decision awarding Macy's damages to the extent of about $2700, instead of the $100,000 which they alleged they had sustained in being prevented from selling non-copyright books. It is expected that Judge Dowling, of the Supreme Court, will confirm the referee's decision within a week, when we also hope to be able to give full particulars. It is unofficially stated that the Macy's have expressed their intention to appeal from the referee's decision, which seems likely, as with the final wind up of this suit, whomever it might favor, the undersellers would lose an advertising asset of more or less value, though the impression prevails that the American Publishers' Association might also gain by an appeal.

THE AMERICAN BOOKSELLERS' ASSOCIATION TO THE BOOKTRADE.

WE give below a letter addressed by the American Booksellers' Association to the booksellers of the United States, hoping that all those to whom it may bring a message may be enrolled at the forthcoming convention:

To the Booktrade of the United States:

We beg to remind you once more of the approaching convention and banquet of the American Booksellers' Association. Elaborate preparations have been made for this meeting, which insure its being the best ever held. The program for the daily sessions is incisive and interesting, and the speakers for the banquet, including Messrs. Matthews, Irwin and Newell, will make that a notable occasion. Several novelties and surprises are promised by the Banquet Committee, and the affair will be a fitting and pleasant close to our greatest annual meeting.

As a direct result of much strenuous work on the part of the Association, improved conditions have already been established; more fixed prices and greater discounts have been secured. Not all that the bookseller wants or needs or hopes for has been gained, but substantial progress has been made and, by united and continued effort, more can and will be done.

For this reason every bookseller should be an active member of the Association and participate in the advantages gained by the improvement of the conditions under which he is compelled to do business. We want, and should have your support.

Renew your membership and make your arrangements to attend the convention in New York, May 11 and 12. Headquarters will be, as before, at the Hotel Victoria, Broadway and Twenty-seventh Street, where you will meet old and new friends; and the banquet will be held at the Hotel Astor, Broadway and Forty-fourth Street, New York, on the evening of May 12, at half-past six o'clock. The price of tickets is three dollars and fifty cents, and they may be obtained direct from the Association or from any member of the Banquet Committee.

Every bookseller should be a member of the Association.

Most truly yours,
WALTER L. BUTLER, President.
ALBERT B. FIFIELD, Secretary.

Below is given a list of "Don'ts for Booksellers" which we believe will be helpful if followed:

DON'TS FOR BOOKSELLERS.

Don't forget it costs 25c. on the dollar to come out "whole" on sales in your business.

Don't forget that a discount of 33⅓ per cent. is necessary in order to make a living profit possible.

Don't turn down an order for a publisher who is trying to give you a chance to live.

Don't criticize the price of his book if the discount is right.

Don't forget to buy books on their merits, and in accordance with your possible sales, if the discount is right.

DON'T buy books on a special bill in excess of what you can dispose of, and get paid for, before the bill becomes due.

DON'T buy a book which has been regularly sold at a given price, if the publisher reduces your discount, instead of increasing the retail price.

DON'T forget that it is better to be without goods and to go out of business than to do business at a loss.

DON'T fail to talk in favor of a fixed price, living discount and proper protection to the travelling man who visits you, and in your correspondence with publishers.

DON'T fail to give support to those publishers who are trying to make a success of books at fixed prices with postage additional.

DON'T forget that it is up to you to show the publishers that good books, at proper prices, with a fair margin of profit, will be successful.

DON'T tell what you would do if you were some one else—just show what you can do yourself.

THE NEW UNIVERSALIST PUBLISHING HOUSE.

THE UNIVERSALIST PUBLISHING HOUSE has begun the erection of a new building located near the new business centre of Boston, on lots Nos. 359 to 365 Boylston Street. It is directly back of the Arlington Street Church, and but a step from the Public Gardens, easy of access from all parts of the city and in the direct current of the city's life.

The new structure will present a beautiful appearance from the street, ranking well with the many other new commercial buildings which are rapidly going up in this section of the city. It is promised that it shall be delivered to the publishing house by the first of September, so that in all probability it shall be in full possession and their whole plant in working order by the first of October or before.

Within, the building will afford room for a large store and business offices connected with the publications and general book interests of the Universalist Publishing House, with special facilities for the gathering and displaying of Sunday school instrumentalities.

On the same floor with the book rooms will be a commodious hall for meetings of the ministers and of other organizations. There will also be provided comfortable rest rooms, writing rooms, etc., so that out-of-town Universalists and their friends when visiting Boston can feel that practically they have the privileges of a club in which they have the right of membership.

Still farther it is proposed to make the Publishing House the active agent of all its people, representing them in a great mail-order book, stationery, publication and general church and Sunday school supply business.

One entire floor will be occupied by a suite of convenient editorial rooms, the fine offices of the National Women's Missionary Association, the National Young People's Christian Union, the Massachusetts State Convention and Superintendent and other church interests.

Another floor will be devoted to the printing plant, and in addition there will be a large number of general offices to let from which a comfortable income will be derived.

OLD PRINTING LANDMARK.

THERE is still standing at 156 North Second Street, Philadelphia, according to Walden's Stationer, the building where Melchoir Steiner and Charles Cist, both former workmen for Henry Miller, one of the early German printers in Philadelphia, printed many books, both in German and English, and where for a time, both before and after the Revolution, they issued a German newspaper. The imprints of Steiner & Cist are still valued by collectors, although they are not so highly esteemed as some other early printers in that city.

Second Street once was the principal thoroughfare running north and south through the city, and there, consequently, were gathered within easy walking distance of each other nearly all the printing-houses in Philadelphia.

Steiner was a son of the Rev. John Conrad Steiner, pastor of the Dutch Presbyterian Church, once located on Race Street. He was put apprentice to Henry Miller, who had his printing house on Race Street, opposite the Moravian Church. There Steiner learned the trade, and when his master retired succeeded to the business.

He was an excellent English scholar, as well as a learned man in his own tongue, German, and it has been remarked of him that he was a printer more by occupation than by trade. When he arrived in Philadelphia he found employment with Miller, who set him to work at translations from English into German, but soon afterward he formed a partnership with Steiner, and the two set up in business at Second Street and Coat's Alley, a small thoroughfare running from Front to Second Street, above Race Street. They began to publish a German newspaper soon after the beginning of the Revolutionary War, but lacking the necessary encouragement they soon abandoned the enterprise. Then the British took possession of the city, and the printers retired. After the evacuation of the city Steiner and Cist returned and once again tempted fate by publishing a newspaper. The pair dissolved partnership in 1781, Steiner retaining the newspaper, while Cist removed to what was No. 104 and what is now 156 North Second Street, where he remained until the seat of government removed to Washington, when he followed to the capital city. There he acquired considerable property, but returned to Philadelphia. He died at Bethlehem in the year 1805, and was buried in the Moravian cemetery. Steiner ceased to be a master printer in 1794, and gladly accepted a clerkship in one of the government departments. He died in Washington in 1807. Cist, who became well-to-do, was the founder of an influential dynasty in the upper part of Pennsylvania, along the Susquehanna.

After Cist left Philadelphia the printing house was occupied by Conrad Zentler, who issued a once famous German almanac, Der Amerikanische Kalender, remembered by its motto, "Wir leben in hoffnung besseren zeiten," (We live in hope of better times.)

This was heralded on the cover by the picture of an angel with a trumpet to its lips. Zentler, who was an industrious, enterprising and economical man, saved a modest competency, which he subsequently lost in the failure of the United States Bank.

THE McDEVITT-WILSON BOOK SHOP.

THE McDEVITT-WILSON BARGAIN BOOK SHOP has just opened up its new quarters at 30 Church Street, in the Hudson Terminal Building, of the Hudson and Manhattan R. R. Company, New York. The building, of which the McDevitt-Wilson store is a unit, houses 10,000 people, who pass the store by three entrances and exits. The store, about 20 by 60 feet, with a gallery, furnished in old oak, invites the book lover to loaf. Everywhere the eye is met with appropriate illuminated mottoes, such as "Laws die, Books endure," "The True University of these Days is a collection of Books," "A Book fitly chosen is a Life-long Friend," "When a New Book Comes Out I read an Old One," etc.

The tone of the fixtures is rather dark, but this is relieved by the lighting concealed under the floor of the gallery, which throws into relief almost every title of every book on the shelves beneath the gallery. Electrolliers in the ceiling afford light for the whole store. Busts of the poets of ancient and modern times, pictures, framed mottoes and a dash of color here and there to relieve the sombreness of the furniture add to the attractiveness and the literary appearance of the book shop, which will be one of the landmarks of the lower part of Manhattan.

MS. OF "STAR SPANGLED BANNER" FOUND.

THE original manuscript of "The Star Spangled Banner" has been located by the Francis Scott Key Memorial Association, which is endeavoring to obtain possession of it. While it is improbable that the owner of this precious relic, a Baltimore woman, will consent permanently to part with it, the Association hopes to be able to borrow the manuscript to place on exhibition at the old Key mansion in Georgetown, D. C.

OBITUARY NOTES.

JOHN W. MELVILLE, a clerk for William Thomson, of 35 West Forty-second Street, New York, died on Friday, April 30, from pneumonia, in the thirty-seventh year of his age. Mr. Melville, while not widely known to the trade, had many warm friends within his circle of acquaintances. It is with regret that they find that his widow and seven children are left without immediate resources, and it is suggested that such booksellers as may sympathize with cases of this kind will come to the aid of Mrs. J. W. Melville, 469 St. Ann's Avenue, Bronx, N. Y.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

HORACE FRANKEL'S blank verse poem, "Chants Communal," has been translated into German and Italian. In it he sings the song of labor and economic struggle.

MRS. HERMANN BOSCH, whose story, "The Duffer," recently won one of the New York Herald's short story prizes, is the author of "Bridget," published last year by B. W. Dodge & Company.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

Brains for the Retailer and Advertiser, formerly published by the Outing Publishing Company, has been purchased by W. G. Beecroft, who will continue to publish it at its old address, Deposit, N. Y. Many improvements have been arranged for the coming year, E. M. Barrott having been engaged as manager.

PERSONAL NOTES.

F. C. J. TESSARO, manager of the American Publishers' Association, has also been appointed manager of the Periodical Publishers' Association, which has opened up offices at 156 Fifth Avenue, New York.

DWIGHT H. COOLEY, cashier of the American News Company since January 15, 1866, retired from active business on May 1. At seventy-eight years of age Mr. Cooley has richly earned freedom from business cares and responsibilities, though the younger generations that had learned to depend upon him for counsel and direction will sorely miss him. Mr. Cooley is succeeded by Matthew McCroddan.

ROBERT ABBOTT, who has been general bookkeeper of the American News Company since 1864, retired on May 1. He will be missed by thousands who have done business with the American News Company during the forty-five years with which he has been connected with it. William J. Sherwood, who takes Mr. Abbott's place, is well known to those who have had business dealings with the American News Company and is universally esteemed and liked.

BUSINESS NOTES.

BROOKLYN, N. Y.—George Kleinteich, bookseller, has removed to 1245 Fulton Street, between Bedford and Nostrand Avenues.

FRESNO, CAL.—The Kerman News Co. has been incorporated to deal in books and stationery.

LA CROSSE, WIS.—E. J. Evans, who for five years owned and operated the book and stationery department of the William Doerflinger Department Store, has purchased the book, stationery and office supply business of Hoeschler Brothers at 500 Main Street.

LOS ANGELES, CAL.—Baker West Co. has been incorporated to carry on a book business.

MONROVIA, CAL.—H. L. Haslett has opened up a book and stationery store here.

MONROVIA, CAL.—W. P. Vestal has opened a book and stationery store.

OAKLAND, CAL.—H. D. Ellison, bookseller, has sold out to H. R. Cooper.

WOODLAND, CAL.—Warren Meyers, of the book and stationery firm of Myers & Hughes, has sold his interest to A. L. Lee.

BIBLIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

THE BOSTON BOOK COMPANY have reprinted from their Bulletin of Bibliography Pamphlets Nos. 19 and 20, the first covering "Title Index to the Works of Honoré de Balzac," compiled by Fredericka Gillette, of the University of Michigan; and the second "Ghost Stories and Tales of the Supernatural," compiled by Jean Hawkins. The Balzac index is intended as an aid in finding the different works of Balzac from their various titles, without searching through many volumes. It indexes seven separate editions of Balzac and after every title gives all the initials that stand for the various editions in which it appears. Some titles appear in every edition, others only in one or two. Two of the editions are in French, one in 24 volumes, one in 55 volumes, both published by Calmann Levy; the other five appear in translation: the library edition, (Gebbie Publishing Co.); the temple edition, (Macmillan); Katherine Wormeley's translation in 20 and 40 volumes, (both originally published by Roberts Brothers,) and the edition published by The Neale Co., originally copyrighted by Barrie & Son. In all cases the number of the volume in the special set is given and the number of the pages on which the separate stories appear. It is a very useful addition to a set of Balzac and should be in every library. The list of "Ghost Stories" was begun in a public library to supply the constant demand for ghost stories, often hard to find, because often hidden in collections. The first idea was to include no story in which the mystery was explained, but some of the kind have now been included at the end, under the heading of "Humorous." The list has been enlarged to include other stories of the occult—hypnotism, spiritualism, etc.—but folk-lore and legends have been excluded, also satire under disguise of fairy stories, tales of the Arabian nights type and "scientific magic" like that of Herbert George Wells. The line was difficult to draw and the choice at times seems arbitrary. A few popular accounts of the supernatural outside of fiction have been included. No attempt is made to give every collection in which the titles are to be found, nor to give the best editions of the books that contain them.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

THE CENTURY COMPANY will publish in May a pocket edition of Kipling's "Jungle Book," the cover in flexible red leather.

DODGE PUBLISHING COMPANY have just ready "The Reflections of a Bachelor Girl," by Helen Rowland, the author of "The Widow."

W. J. WATT & Co. will publish at once a novel entitled "The Three Keys," by Frederic Ormond, the scene of which is laid in the New York of to-day. Harrison Fisher has furnished for the book a frontispiece in colors.

FREDERICK A. STOKES COMPANY will publish shortly a new novel by Harold Bindloss, author of "Alton of Somasco," etc., entitled "Thrice Armed." This is described as a story of sea life on the Pacific Coast, in the writing of which the author has drawn upon his experience in a sailing vessel.

THE Bishop of California is publishing, through Thomas Whittaker, Inc., his lectures to divinity students at the Pacific Theological School. The title of the book is "Apt and Meet," and it is a valuable and timely series of talks appealing to the devout, the heroic and the practical.

MITCHELL KENNERLY will publish shortly a new novel by Edgar Saltus, entitled "Daughters of the Rich." A man and two women furnish the main characters of the story, of which the scene moves from New York to Paris, Deauville and Chantilly, thence to Santa Barbara in Southern California, and from there to New York again.

LITTLE, BROWN & Co. have just ready "A Royal Ward," by Percy Brebner, whose "Princess Maritza" was so pronounced a success. This is a story of England in the days when the Prince Regent ruled for George III.; and "In a Mysterious Way," by Anne Warner, who here gives us a character in a village schoolmistress worthy to rank with "Aunt Mary" and "Susan Clegg."

SCHAEFER & KORADI, Philadelphia, have just brought out an "A B C of Skat Score Pad," arranged by F. W. Liedtke, author of the "A B C of Skat" manual. The pad holds fifty sheets and gives on the back of the mount "Skat in a Nutshell according to the rules of the North American Skat League." The price of the pad, postpaid, is twenty cents; per dozen, $1.75 and 35 cents postage.

A VERY useful addition to the Temple edition of Shakespeare is the "Lexicon and Concordance," published by The Macmillan Company this week. Of all the pocket and moderate-priced editions of the plays and poems, the compact, attractive volumes of the Temple have long been the most popular. The "Lexicon and Concordance" gives a very desirable touch of completeness to the edition, making it as suitable for the library as for convenient reading at odd moments.

AN arrangement has just been completed between the trustees of the University of Pennsylvania and D. Appleton & Co. by which the latter are to become the selling agents for the publications of the university. These publications include a considerable number of monographs embodying the results of original investigations in literature, science and philology. The books will bear the Appleton imprint, but will not be issued under this new arrangement until the fall of this year.

GEORGE W. JACOBS & Co. have in preparation another animal story by Clarence Hawkes, entitled "King of the North." It is the biography of a moose and will have five full-page illustrations by Charles Copeland. They have also under way an attractive book for young people, entitled "The Land of Really True," by Millicent Olmsted. It will be illustrated in colors by Eleanor Plaisted Abbott and Helen Alden Knipe, and will be uniform in size and style with "The Land of Never Was," by the same author, one of the successes of last fall.

DUFFIELD & Co. have just brought out a new book by William Eleroy Curtis, entitled "One Irish Summer." The work, profusely illustrated from photographs, consists of a series of sketches and descriptions of Ireland and Irish life as seen by the author during his travels. They have also just ready "The Gospel of Anarchy," by Hutchins Hapgood, author of "The Autobiography of a Thief," "The Spirit of Labor," etc. The present work is a sociological study in which two of the characters who appeared in "The Spirit of Labor" give their views on love, government and society. The book is intended to "show a pair of anarchists in the making."

BRENTANO's have nearly ready a new book by Mrs. Panton, entitled "Fresh Leaves and Green Pastures," in something of the same vein as this author's book of last year, "Leaves from a Life." Mrs. Panton is a daughter of W. P. Frith, R. A., and lives in Dorsetshire, England, Thomas Hardy's country. Her present book is descriptive of English country and literary life in the Victorian period, and contains numerous anecdotes and stories told by Thomas Hardy, Miss Mulock and others. They will publish at once a new novel by Mrs. Baillie Reynolds, entitled "A False Position," and another by Richard Bagon, called "Anthony Cuthbert." The scenes of both of these novels are laid in England of the present time.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY will publish on May 12 their most important spring novel, a romance by John Reed Scott, author of the popular successes, "The Colonel of the Red Huzzars," "The Princess Dehra" and "Beatrix of Clare." Mr. Scott's latest story is distinctly modern in tone and theme, the scenes being laid in the Eastern United States. He has chosen the title "The Woman in Question," and a wide sale for the novel is assured, as the advance orders have already taken up the entire first edition. They have just brought out a popular entymological work, entitled "Our Insect Friends and Enemies," by John B. Smith, Professor of Entymology in Rutgers College, and New Jersey State Entymologist.

LONGMANS, GREEN & Co. announce for immediate publication "Five Months in the Himalaya," by A. L. Mumm, formerly secretary of the Alpine Club, illustrated with four panoramas, twenty-four full-page plates, and about fifty collotypes on India paper mounted in the text; "Railroad Promotion and Capitalization in the United States," by Frederick A. Cleveland and Fred W. Powell; "The Basis of Ascendancy," a discussion of certain principles of public policy involved in the development of the Southern States, by Edgar Gardner Murphy; and "Fundamental Principles of Chemistry," a translation by Harry W. Morse of the work of Wilhelm Ostwald, which forms an introduction to all works of chemistry.

A. C. McCLURG & Co. will publish almost immediately "A Pictorial Log of the Battle Fleet Cruise Around the World," prepared by Chief Turret Captain R. J. Miller and H. R. Jackson, official photographer of the fleet, a notable work that will take its place as the standard account of the great naval venture; and "Essays and Addresses," by the late Edwin Burritt Smith, who speaks such telling words in the cause of political righteousness. Later in the fall will appear "The Diary of James K. Polk," being prepared for the Chicago Historical Society; and "Something of Men I Have Known," by Adlai E. Stevenson, a lawyer since 1858 and a leader in politics from his election to Congress in 1874 to his retirement from the vice-presidency in 1897.

FREDERIC FAIRCHILD SHERMAN, New York, has just finished for J. Pierpont Morgan, Esq.,

a most attractive art volume, printed from a new font of old style caslon type on a fine handmade paper specially manufactured in France for the purpose. It is entitled "Cylinders and Other Ancient Oriental Seals," and contains a description of one of Mr. Morgan's several collections of these rare objects prepared by Dr. William Hayes Ward, the distinguished oriental scholar who was in charge of the Wolfe Expedition of 1885. The volume is fully illustrated with over 300 extremely successful photogravures made from wax impressions of the specimens, and the engraved title-page, initials and chapter headings are all from handlettered designs specially drawn.

FLEMING H. REVELL Co. have just ready "The Fighting Saint," a collection of vigorous essays by James Madison Stifler, which have many of them appeared as editorials in the Sunday School Times on such subjects as Broadmindedness; The Joy of Battle; The Best Weapon; The Fighting Quality, etc.; a new volume of Popular Lectures of Sam Jones which have been delivered from almost every lyceum and Chautauqua throughout the United States and Canada, and are now carefully edited and arranged by Walt Holcomb; "God and Me," by Peter Ainslie, a brief manual of Christian theology; and "A Devotional Commentary on St. Matthew, by Robert F. Horton, peculiarly valuable to bring out the gospel narrative and its power to nourish devotional life.

THE BOOK SUPPLY COMPANY, Chicago, will publish August 25 a new story by Harold Bell Wright, author of "The Shepherd of the Hills" and "That Printer of Udell's," to be entitled "The Calling of Dan Matthews." As the author's first book, "That Printer of Udell's," was notable for its "motive power" in portraying the working of practical Christianity, and "The Shepherd of the Hills" was conspicuous for its "story power," breathing an inspiration to the simple life, so the forthcoming story, while differing in treatment and style from the other two, is said to be "a combination of the 'motive power' and the 'story power' in one vital life, giving force of 'thought power' out of which the ministry of daily life is the all compelling incentive that grips the life and determination of its readers." The story will be illustrated by Arthur I. Keller. The first edition will be 100,000 copies. Reilly & Britton Co. are the publishers' selling agents in the United States.

To all who believe in the happiness of health, or who are interested in the Emmanuel Movement, or the theories of Metchnikoff and Fletcher, "The Philosophy of Long Life," published this week by John Lane Company, should be a stimulus. Death and life have been the two things which have commanded the attention of mankind from the building of the Pyramids until the present. M. Finot looks at life as a force which permeates all things, inanimate objects as well as animals. His conclusion, therefore, is that life is indestructible, and he gives practical suggestions for the prolongation of our life in this world and for banishing the helplessness of old age. He believes that he has discovered the "Cure for Old Age," and teaches calmness in the face of death. The book has run through fourteen editions in France, and is being translated into almost every language. It is a philosophy for lovers of life.

JOHN C. WINSTON COMPANY have in preparation a unique book of travel, entitled "Around the World with a Business Man," by L. A. Biggar, a retired banker, of Hutchinson, Kan. Mr. Biggar's travels were extensive, and he has described them from the point of view of the practical man of affairs, rather than of the writer whose only aim is to entertain. His work will fill four volumes and will be illustrated by more than 200 photographs. The same house have also just ready a new book by Max Pemberton called "The Show Girl." The story is that of a young sculptor in Paris who falls in with the "show girl," whom he rescues from the Café des Assins from a danger which threatens her in connection with a theft of jewels. He takes her to his home, and the embarrassments which result and the subsequent adventures of the pair combine to give piquancy to a tale which Mr. Pemberton believes is the best he has yet written.

THE scene of "The Shepherd of Jebel Nur," the new story by William Allen Knight, which the Pilgrim Press, of Boston, is preparing for publication in book form, is laid in the region of Adana, Jebel Nur, a range of hills seen from the old town looking across the plain toward the sea. It was written when no one knew that this ancient district, the home of St. Paul, would suddenly become the scene of such tumult and carnage as to draw the world's attention. Probably the fact that throngs of herdsmen and shepherds come down from the mountains in winter to the rich plain around Adana may have much to do with the outbreaks and suffering which have centered there. These and other roving classes sometimes swell a normal population of 25,000 to more than 300,000. In this story Mr. Knight has dealt once more with the shepherd life described by him in "The Song of Our Syrian Guest," interpreting it now from a New Testament point of view.

BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY published May 6 a novel by Lucia Chamberlain, entitled "The Other Side of the Door." This is the first novel which the author, who collaborated with her sister Esther on "Mrs. Essington" and "The Coast of Chance," has written on her undivided responsibility, although Esther Chamberlain was consulted about its plot and construction before her untimely death last June. Like "The Coast of Chance," the scene of "The Other Side of the Door" is laid in San Francisco, and the mystery and romance of the good gray city are utilized to the full. Novel features of promotion are used by the publishers to bring this book into notice. Picture puzzles have been made from the drawing by Herman Pfeifer for the sumptuous jacket, and in window displays these examples of the fad of the hour attract a great deal of attention. Then a "double-back-action post-card" has been devised showing one side of the door, with a surprise awaiting when the door is opened and the other side revealed. They have also just ready "Elusive Isabel," by Jacques Futrelle, a novel of diplomatic intrigue, the scene of which is laid in Washington.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS have just brought out a vivid, thrilling story of love and adventure in Africa during the French occupation of Algeria, entitled "In the Wake of the Green Banner," by Eugene Paul Métour, translated by E. M. Ashe. Berkeley Smith has designed for the book one of his most successful covers—in the foreground the folds of the Green Banner, its forward motion admirably indicated, and in the corners, in gold, glimpses of the desert and the Atlas. The Green Banner is the holy flag of Islam, and its unfurling is the signal that calls together the various nations and tribes for a religious war. They will publish on the 15th inst. a "Handbook of Alaska—its Resources, Products and Attractions," by Major-General A. W. Greely, Chief Signal Officer, U. S. A. and former Arctic explorer, who is thoroughly equipped for writing such a book. As it is, he has produced an exhaustive authoritative and interesting volume dealing with every subject of interest to those going to the territory for any purpose and at the same time serving the purpose of a reference book. The volume contains five text maps and large folded maps and twenty-four full-page illustrations. They will bring out at the same time Richard Harding Davis's new book, "The White Mice," a stirring story of love and a revolution in a Central American republic, with illustrations by George Gibbs.

MOFFAT, YARD & Co. have just ready "Heather," by John Trevena, the second volume in the trilogy which began with "Furze the Cruel." In that the author, who lives a bachelor life in Dartmoor, explained that everywhere in Dartmoor are "furze" representing cruelty, "heather," representing endurance, and "granite," representing strength. Mr. Trevena, who has been compared to Hardy and Zola, has never read any modern fiction, but he has studied the Dartmoor peasants with great insight. They have also just ready "The Plotting of Frances Ware," by James Locke, author of "The Stem of the Crimson Dahlia," who tells an international tale with an American heroine, of which the plot begins in the desert of Afghanistan, moves on to Paris and reaches its climax in the city of Warsaw. He made a special study of modern Polish life and feeling since the Pole became peaceful and progressive. They have nearly ready a volume of literary reminiscences by William Winter, to be brought out under the title of "Old Friends." The principal part of this book is entirely new, and contains also the study of George William Curtis, which gained Mr. Winter his Litt.D. from Brown University, which he has rewritten and amplified. The book is similar in appearance and plan to the author's "Other Days," recently published. A limited large paper edition of the last-named book is just being published, each copy of which is autographed by the author. The edition is limited to 150 copies.

HARPER & BROTHERS will publish shortly "Jason," a new novel by Justus Miles Forman. The title has a classic hint, but only in symbol; the actual setting is the contemporary world of society, in which Mr. Forman has thus far seemed to find his happy field. "Jason" is said to read almost like a detective story. They have also nearly ready a revised edition of "Practical Golf," by Walter G. Travis, former golf champion. Mr. Travis has made the new play necessitated by the rubber-cored ball the basis of several of his text amendments. The photographs showing position in play will remain one of the distinctly helpful features of this book, which required only to be brought thus to date to maintain its prime authority. Other books to be brought out this month are "The Lady in the White Veil," by Rose O'Neill Wilson, author of "The Loves of Edwy," and other novels. A once fashionable New York Square and an empty house thereon are said to furnish the principal scene of action for this story. "Peter, Peter," Maude Radford Warren's romance of a millionaire New York couple, the final installment of the serial publication which is in the current number of Harper's Bazar. "The Inner Shrine," a novel which has been running anonymously in Harper's Magazine, will also be published in book form this month. The novel by William Dean Howells, which was to have been published this spring, has been postponed. A little volume made up of two dramatic poems will take its place.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted" book-trade subscribers, under their own names, are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print of five nonpareil lines, exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, or those advertising anonymously, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line. All objectionable books will be excluded so far as they come under our notice.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No reduction for repeated matter.

All other small undisplayed advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no account must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their Communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

⚡ In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash.]

⚡ Write your wants plainly, and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly," does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay" book-sellers should take the usual precautions, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY OFFICE

The Publishers' Weekly

Recognized as the representative of the publishing and bookselling interests in the United States. Contains full weekly record of American publications, with monthly indexes, cumulated quarterly, news of interest concerning the book trade, lists of "Books Wanted," (an advertising feature which each subscriber can use without charge to the extent of 100 lines per year,) etc., etc. Subscription, $4.00 a year; to foreign countries, $5.00 a year.

The Annual American Catalog, 1908

In two parts: A short-title index to all the book publications of the year and a full-title index, with brief annotation of the leading books of 1908. (Ready March, 1909.) 8vo, cloth, $3.00.

The American Catalog, 1905-1907

Vol. I containing in one alphabet an index to all books published during 1905-06-07; under author, title, subject and series entries. 8vo, half morocco, $7.50.

Vol. II containing the full-title Weekly Record material of The Publishers' Weekly for the same years, in a separate alphabet for each year. 8vo, half morocco, $6.00.

The American Catalog, 1900-1905

Vol. I contains a five-year cumulation, Jan. 1, 1900-Jan. 1, 1905, giving in one alphabet, by author, title and subject, information of the books issued during the years covered by this period. It also contains a directory of over 3800 publishers, with street addresses. 8vo, half morocco, $7.50.

Vol. II or Supplementary volume gives the full-title entries with annotations printed in the Weekly Record of The Publishers' Weekly, cumulated into an alphabet for each year, i.e., into five alphabets 1900, 01, 02, 03, 04. This is planned to answer the demand of such libraries, bookdealers, and others as want the full material of The Publishers' Weekly bibliographical system in available shape. 8vo, half morocco, $7.50. The set of two, $15.

Of the previous series of THE AMERICAN CATALOGUE, quarto size, the earlier volumes are out of print. We have remaining a few copies of the volumes 1890-95 and 1895-1900, bound in half morocco, $15.00 each.

The Publishers' Trade List Annual

Contains the latest catalogues of upward of 200 American publishers, contributed by themselves and arranged alphabetically by the firm-names, with smaller lists, fully indexed, at the end of the volume, indispensable to every one who has any interest in the sale or purchase of books. Large 8vo, cloth, $2.00.

Index to the Publishers' Trade List Annual, 1902, out of print.

The Supplementary Index, 1903-1904, 500 pages, 8vo, cloth, with thumb index, $3.00. The alphabet in this volume is supplementary to the original Index of 1902.

The Library Journal

Chiefly devoted to library economy and bibliography. Established in 1876. Published monthly. Subscription $4.00 a year, postpaid, single numbers, 35 cents. Price to Europe or other countries in the Union, 16s. a year; single numbers, 1s. 6d.

The Annual Library Index

To be Published May 12th
SUCCESS UNQUESTIONED

First Large Edition Sold Before Publication!

The Author
 in Question

The author in question is JOHN REED SCOTT, the remarkably clever and successful young American author, who, in three years of writing, has already three best selling novels to his credit—"The Colonel of the Red Huzzars," "The Princess Dehra," and "Beatrix of Clare." Mr. Scott is the acknowledged master of a dashing style of narrative which he has made all his own. He shows steady improvement over each preceding novel, and his new story is told with much literary charm, grace of style and dramatic force.

 in

The novel in question is a romance, but not of Valeria nor mediæval England. Mr. Scott has remained home in America, and the scenes are laid in the Eastern United States. The story is distinctly modern in tone and theme, and centers in and around Fairlawn Hall, an old mansion with a marvelous garden, lying on the outskirts of Egerton, where the new master has come with a party of friends—to find mystery, misfortune and love awaiting him.

The author has planned his story well, and has filled it with many dramatic surprises and intense moments that carry the reader right along.
